

Better Communication On Hall Urged

Watermelon first aid? Perhaps the world's first banded watermelon went flying through the air Saturday as this participant in the annual Lambda Chi Watermelon Bust gives the old heave-ho in the watermelon toss. The tape was innovated to hold the juicy delicacy together as it was tossed back and forth between team members. Unfortunately, as the team members found out, adhesive tape does not a watermelon make. (Banner-Graphic Photo)

A call for better communications concerning the proposed new city hall and the financing of it is contained in an open letter signed by Chamber of Commerce President Jim Cook to Mayor Raymond Fisher and members of the Greencastle City Council from the Greencastle Chamber.

The letter reads as follows: Dear Mayor Fisher and Council Members:

By action of the Board of Directors of the Greencastle Chamber of Commerce at its meeting on Aug. 28, I have been asked to write to you with regard to a matter which seems to be of considerable concern to many Greencastle citizens and taxpayers. The subject of this concern is the proposed new city hall building and the financing of it.

Let me at the outset emphasize that the chamber board has not adopted any official position either opposing or favoring the construction of a new city hall. However, it has been brought to the chamber's attention that a number of citizens feel very poorly informed about this project, the facilities it will contain, the method whereby it will be financed, and the anticipated cost.

In essence, the concern expressed to and by the chamber board is that members of the community have not been given sufficient information about this project, nor has the general public been given adequate opportunity to express its views on the proposed structure, for which each taxpayer presumably will be required, directly or indirectly, to provide funding. The chamber feels that the city council members, as elected officials, have an obligation to communicate more openly to the electorate their plans on a project of this nature.

The chamber board, therefore, urges the city council to make no further financial commitments related to the proposed new city hall structure until it (the city council) provides an opportunity for any and all Greencastle residents who may be so interested to attend an open meeting with the city council, at which time they (the residents) be enabled to raise such questions as those listed below.

Representatives of the Chamber of Commerce board plan to attend the city council's regular meeting on Monday, Sept. 9, and hope that the council will be at that time respond to this request. Thank you.

Possible questions listed by the chamber for an open meeting are:

Does the need exist in any sort of imperative manner for a city hall? How many city officials other than firemen and police spend how much time in their offices?

Is an entirely new facility necessary to accomplish necessary improvements?

On several occasions there seemed strong inclination on the part of the professional law enforcement officials of the city and county to save money and improve efficiency by more common utilization of facilities and equipment—and even in some instances personnel (dispatchers). In what way has the new city hall responded to these possibilities?

Did city officials ever take any initiative in bringing county and city officers together to explore such potentials?

At present there seems to be a strong undercurrent of criticism among many citizens that so much should be spent on a new city hall. What efforts have been put forth to solicit comment or to inform the citizens about these matters? How does a new city hall stack up in terms of priorities when measured against such issues as sewers, water, streets, curbs, beautification, parking and tax reduction? In short what are the convincing arguments that Greencastle requires a new city hall?

Without accepting the theory that our present county hospital building would be suitable for other purposes, might it not be wise, at the very least, to appoint a study commission to examine thoroughly what potential uses the building could serve? And if this makes sense, wouldn't it be better to conduct such a study before a new city hall is constructed just in case some answer might be forthcoming which could save the community substantial money, and, at the same time, utilize a soon to be empty building.

The chamber has received many complaints concerning the poor condition of curbs in the uptown area of Greencastle. We understand that there has been an appropriation of $25,000 for the repair of curbs, but that at the present time there has been no decision from the council to do anything about their deplorable condition. We feel that a program should be started to repair several blocks each year until the job is completed.

What would the actual annual cost of the proposed city hall be to the citizens of Greencastle and did the master plan prepared by Clyde Williams and Associates point out the priority for a city hall?

How was the architect selected for the city hall and how much money has been spent and appropriated for the structure and land.

Is there a sewer improvement plan for the next five or 10 years that relates cost to expected income and growth patterns.

Tall Corn Growers To 'Stalk' Local Fest Prize

Cash prizes will be waiting for persons who can raise the tallest stalk of corn or prove to be the best guesser in Putnam County when the first annual Corn Festival is held in the county seat Sept. 19, 20 and 21, it was announced today by the Merchants Promotion Committee of the Greencastle Chamber of Commerce.

World Corn King. The prize will be a $25 certificate.

Good guessers are asked to check the window of the Chamber of Commerce at 14 S. Indiana St. for a jar filled with corn kernels. The closest guess will net the guesser $25. Second and third place winners will come in for $15 and $5 respectively.

"Look over your corn fields and find the stalk you think will win the contest and bring it to the court house, Friday, Sept. 20," said Dick Shuck, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce. "Whether you are young or old, you might win. Stop by the chamber office and guess the number of grains in the jar, too. Bring the whole family to the first annual Putnam County Corn Festival. It's for everyone."

The festival is scheduled to open Wednesday evening, Sept. 18, when TV personalities Bonnie Lou and Colleen Sharp of the Paul Dixon show, along with other celebrities appear at the Greencastle Junior High gym at 8 p.m. Tickets for their affair are on sale at all sponsoring merchants.

'Shark Lady', Dr. Eugenie Clark To Open DePauw Science Series

Marine biologist Dr. Eugenie Clark will launch DePauw University's "Eminent Women in Science" series Wednesday (Sept. 11) with an 8 p.m. public lecture in the Science and Mathematics Center auditorium.

Dr. Clark is expected to discuss aspects of recent research dealing with the possible discovery of a shark repellent for divers.

Others appearing in the series supported by a grant from the National Science Foundation are Dr. Betsy Ancker-Johnson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, Sept. 17, and Dr. Sarah Lee Lippincott, director of the Sproul Observatory at Swarthmore College, Sept. 24.

Dr. Clark's research on sharks is sufficiently extensive that she is widely known in scientific and popular circles as "the shark lady." Now a teaching marine biologist at the University of Maryland, she has been conducting research with the aim of developing a shark repellent that is at the same time a likely medical anti-toxin against the venom of scorpions and some snakes.

Her writing is as prolific as her research. Her first book, "Lady with a Spear" was published by Harper Brothers and became a Book-of-the-Month Club selection. Other popular and semi-popular articles include such titles as "Spearfishing in the Red Sea," "The Need for Underwater Parks," and "Wonders of the Deep."

Dr. Clark was educated at

New York University and Hunter College. She has conducted research on poisonous fish throughout the world on grants from the Atomic Energy Commission and a Fulbright Fellowship.

As a teacher she has been associated with the American Museum of Natural History and the Lerner Marine Laboratory in Bermuda. She was principal investigator for 12 grants from the National Science Foundation.

the breaking of chains of intellectual and religious thought that bound Americans in the late 19th century to precepts and assumptions that militated against reform. So long as men believed that the enormous gap between rich and poor was the natural result of an inexorable process of selection ordaining that some would succeed but others must fail, dogma hemmed in those who sought change.

"Until men reexamined their belief that the granting of privileges by government to corporations was good for the country, but help for working men and the needy would endanger the American system, reformers had few tools to use in forging a new society. But when at last the rigid bonds of tradition and dogma were broken, the advocates of constructive change could act effectively."

This book, first published in 1910, was written by Emanuel L. Philipp and constituted at that time a new perspective on the work and life of Wisconsin's controversial reformer Governor Robert M. LaFollette.

Our Health

By C. H. Tracy, M.D.

My young son is very eager to begin participation in his school's fall sports programs. To prepare a worried mother, would you please explain the difference between sprains and strains and the best treatments for these injuries.

Sprains are injuries to the soft tissues — ligaments, tendons, and blood vessels — surrounding a joint.

Pain, swelling and sometimes discoloration of the skin about the joint accompany a sprain. A doctor should always be consulted after such an injury since there is the possibility that there also may be a fracture or dislocation which can be detected only by X-ray.

First aid for a sprain: raise the injured joint on a pillow, apply cold, wet compresses to relieve pain. A doctor will then usually apply supportive bandages.

A strain involves injury to muscles due to overexertion or unaccustomed movements. Rest and warm applications will help to relieve the pain, but a doctor should be consulted if pain persists.

My skin always feels dry and slightly tough after a long summer in the sun. What can I do to "soften up"?

Even if you conscientiously moisturized your skin during the summer as everyone should, continued exposure to strong summer sun may result in the slight "toughness" you observed. It is important to pamper your skin carefully as the weather cools in order to avoid dryness and to prolong your healthy glow from the summer.

One convenient way to restore needed moisture to dry skin is to add a capful or two of a soothing oil such as Alpha Kerol to the bath-water every time you bathe.

TerHorst Resigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gerald F. TerHorst, President Ford's close friend and adviser, resigned Sunday in protest over Ford's granting of an unconditional pardon to former President Richard M. Nixon.

"The President acted in good conscience and I also found it necessary to resign in good conscience," TerHorst said in a statement given to a reporter by his wife from their Alexandria, Va. home.

The unexpected resignation came within hours after Ford's surprise announcement that he had decided to grant a full pardon to the man he succeeded in the nation's highest office one day short of one month ago.

TerHorst was the first man Ford hired for his White House staff after Nixon quit, and the press secretary's resignation clearly was a jolt to Ford's young administration.

Another White House official said he did not expect other Ford aides to join TerHorst in resigning. But most of Ford's close advisers could not be reached for comment Sunday night.

TerHorst himself refused to talk with newsmen as word of his resignation swept through a capital still stunned by the suddenness of Ford's pardon announcement.

TerHorst was not answering a White House telephone which had been installed in his home, but The Associated Press contacted the home on a private residential line. His wife said he had asked her to read the one-sentence statement.

A few minutes later, after newsmen urged Mrs. TerHorst to have her husband elaborate, he called back and said his decision had not been easy to reach.

"It was simply after a great deal of soul searching that I decided I couldn't in good conscience support the President's decision on former President Nixon, even though I knew he took that action in good conscience," TerHorst said.

He added that, "Mercy, like justice, must also be even-handed."

He noted that former Nixon aides are either in prison or under indictment for Watergate-related offenses and that "their reputations and families also have been injured."

"I knew my credibility (as White House spokesman) would be difficult to sustain ... in the absence of a like decision to grant mercy to persons of lesser stations in life," he said.

TerHorst said he did not use the threat of resignation in an effort to dissuade Ford from taking the pardon action. "I accepted the President's position that he acted in good conscience. I do not doubt his motives at all. I still have my conscience to live with," he said.

Ford Grants Nixon Pardon

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford granted Richard M. Nixon "a free, full and absolute pardon" Sunday for any criminal conduct during his presidency, and Nixon responded with a statement of remorse at "my mistakes over Watergate."

Ford made a surprise appearance before newsmen and photographers in his Oval Office to announce the pardon, saying, "I feel that Richard Nixon and his loved ones have suffered enough."

The former President responded from his home in San Clemente, Calif., with a statement in which he admitted no criminal wrongdoing but said that "one thing I can see clearly now is that I was wrong in not acting more decisively and more forthrightly in dealing with Watergate."

Within two hours of Ford's announcement, presidential aides made public the terms of an agreement reached Saturday under which the federal government will be given custody of Nixon's public papers and controversial tape recordings.

However, the agreement specified that all the tapes will be destroyed within five to 10 years — sooner should Nixon die within five years.

Philip Buchen, White House counsel, told reporters that Ford granted Nixon a sweeping pardon without any strings attached. However, he acknowledged that Ford might have taken a different course, or delayed a decision, had he not been informed in advance of the gist of Nixon's planned statement of response and the agreement covering the documents of the Nixon presidency.

In announcing the pardon, Ford said any move to try the former President might have taken months or years during which "ugly passions would again be aroused, our people would again be polarized in their opinions, and the credibility of our free institutions of government would again be challenged at home and abroad."

He said: "My conscience tells me clearly and certainly that I cannot prolong the bad dreams that continue to reopen a chapter that is closed. My conscience tells me that only I, as President, have the constitutional power to firmly shut and seal this book."

Buchen said Ford on Aug. 30 initiated a series of discussions within government and informal contacts with Nixon aimed at deciding whether to grant a pardon.

As part of that process, Buchen said he contacted Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski to get his opinion, at Ford's behest, on how much time might be required to bring about any trial of the former President.

Buchen told reporters he was authorized to quote Jaworski as saying that the widespread publicity given Nixon's resignation and impeachment hearings before the House Judiciary Committee would "require a delay before the selection of a jury is begun of a period from nine months to a year and perhaps longer."

A spokesman for Jaworski said the special prosecutor's office played no direct role in the decision to pardon Nixon but said, "obviously we accept it."

Speaking slowly in a dramatic appearance at his desk in the White House Oval Office, Ford said, "It is common knowledge that serious allegations and accusations hang like a sword over our former President's head and threaten his health as he tries to reshape his life..."

The reference to Nixon's health was not in Ford's prepared text for the occasion and Buchen, when asked if the President had some private knowledge about Nixon's physical and mental condition, replied, "I think it's generally known this man has suffered a great deal."

The pardon prohibits any criminal prosecution of Nixon "for all offenses against the United States" during his term of office.

However, Nixon still would be subject to any civil court proceedings and is still subject to being subpoenaed as a witness — as has already happened — at the trials of Watergate defendants.

One effect of the pardon, legal sources said, is that the former president will not be able to claim his 5th Amendment rights against self-incrimination if he appears as a witness at the Watergate cover-up trial scheduled for Sept. 30. The pardon effectively immunizes Nixon for anything except perjury.

By terms of an agreement between Nixon and the General Services Administration, the former President is depositing all tapes and most records of his presidency to the national archives for storage in a federal facility at Laguna Miguel, Calif., near his oceanside home.

To safeguard the records, which could be sought as evidence in criminal or civil proceedings, the agreement specifies that papers and tapes will be guarded by special locks which can only be opened by using two different keys, one of them to be in Nixon's possession and the second to be used by the archives staff.

In response to a question, Buchen said this meant Nixon could not get at the records and destroy any of them.

Another provision said Nixon's controversial tapes will be formally donated to the American people on Sept. 1, 1979.

After that date and for a five-year period, the administrator of GSA would be required to destroy any tapes which Nixon directed him to destroy.

Moreover, the agreement said all tapes "shall be destroyed at the time of my death or on Sept. 1, 1984, whichever event shall first occur."

Under the terms of the accord, Nixon said in a letter to GSA Administrator Arthur F. Sampson, "I reserve to myself such literary use of the information on the tapes."

Should any be subpoenaed, Nixon would decide on the response and, "if appropriate, assert any privilege or defense I may have" in an effort to withhold them.

However, Buchen said Ford's pardon would not absolve Nixon from contempt of court findings should he ever fail to honor a valid subpoena.

Nixon's statement, which Buchen said Ford knew about "in a general way" before it was issued, said that since returning to California on Aug. 9, "my perspective on Watergate is quite different than it was while I was embattled in the midst of the controversy..."

He said: "Looking back on what is still in my mind a complex and confusing maze of events, decisions, pressure, and personalities, one thing I can see clearly now is that I was wrong in not acting more decisively and more forthrightly in dealing with Watergate, particularly when it reached the stage of judicial proceedings and grew from a political scandal into a national tragedy."

"No words can describe the depth of my regret and pain at the anguish my mistakes over Watergate have caused the nation and the presidency — a nation I so deeply love, and an institution I so greatly respect."

Nixon acknowledged that "many fair-minded people believe that my motivations and actions in the Watergate affair were intentionally self-serving and illegal." He added:

"I now understand how my own mistakes and misjudgments have contributed to that belief and seemed to support it. This burden is the heaviest one of all to bear."

Watergate Still To Be A Much Discussed Topic

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer

From grade school to college, it will be reading, writing and Watergate this fall in many classrooms across the country.

A sampling of public schools from New York to Hawaii showed that the Watergate scandal, its implications and effects, will be discussed in many social science, civics, history and government classes.

At the college level, there are special Watergate courses at some schools and professors elsewhere said they will include it in political science and other classes.

Samuel Dash, formerly chief counsel of the Senate Watergate committee, will be teaching a criminal law course at Georgetown University in Washington. Some students are calling it "Watergate One," a university spokesman said.

Students at Parkrose high school in Portland, Ore., will use Watergate tape transcripts as a textbook for their current issues class. In Columbus, Ohio, Watergate will be part of a 12th grade social studies course called "Principles of Democracy."

Many school officials said they expect the subject to come up spontaneously.

"Good teachers of history or political science would automatically include Watergate and its ramifications," said Roland Okenchek of the curriculum department of Milwaukee public schools.

The chancellor of New York City's public schools said this week that Watergate and its long-term implications for students and the country would be part of the social studies curriculum in all elementary, junior and senior high schools.

"The basic responsibility of schools is to train students for citizenship, and we're obviously going to have to do something to avoid cynicism of young people toward their government as a result of the scandal," said Chancellor Irving Anker.

Mexican President's Father-In-Law Freed

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — The frail, 83-year-old father-in-law of Mexican President Luis Echeverria was in good condition Sunday after being freed by terrorist kidnapers.

Jose Guadalupe Zuno Hernandez was released on a street corner in downtown Guadalajara a late Saturday 10 days after he was abducted.

His son Ruben, told newsmen his father was "very hungry." The first thing he did was ask for something to eat. He is alive and well and in good condition.

He said no deals were made with the kidnapers, "he was just set free."

Zuno Hernandez was kidnapped Aug. 28 by four gunmen near the downtown area of Guadalajara, Mexico's second largest city 300 miles west of Mexico City.

The People's Armed Revolutionary Front claimed responsibility for the kidnapping and demanded a $1.6 million ransom plus release of 10 political prisoners. The government rejected the demands.

A tape the guerrillas sent to a Mexico City newspaper last week contained Zuno's voice saying he was treated well and that his kidnapers were "magnificent" men who would eventually rule Mexico.

Along with the tape were a photograph and a communique saying Zuno, a veteran leftist, was kidnapped because he was member of the "ruling exploiting class in power."

His daughter, Maria Esther, identified the voice as that of her father.

Police said the People's Front is the same organization which kidnapped U.S. Consul General Terrance G. Lonhardy on May 4, 1973. Lonhardy was freed when the government met the Front's demands.

Religion In America

NEW YORK (AP) — Considering American religious life is now mostly broken into polarized blocs, the Rev. Malcolm Boyd keeps on the move seeking to open lines between them. "In the present situation, I find something essential about being on the road," says the roaming priest.

Father Boyd, an innovative Episcopalian whose ministry has varied from parish pastorate and "freedom rides" to university classrooms and night club acts, maintains that communicating orthodox faith "demands unorthodox methods."

In an interview, he said that Christianity in this country at present is suffering "tremendous fragmentation" in which each separate segment is "talking only to itself, when the very opposite is needed."

"What the church needs to do more than anything else is to bring together the disparate groups that have developed among our people," he said. "The different groups need to listen to each other, to share their experiences."

However, as he sees it, Christianity in the nation now has diffused into five distinctive categories, of which the established denominations represent only one type, but from which the other groups have diverged.

In those circumstances, he said he finds it useful to keep in motion.

"It's a ministry growing out of a need," he said. It makes him a kind of clerical courier — a "runner" across ruptured religious terrain. It's a word that's come to characterize his work.

"The Runner" is the title of his latest book, issued by Word Publishers, of Waco, Tex.

Although he remains an associate teaching fellow at Yale, his base in recent years, he now spends nearly all his time moving from place to place, group to group, "listening, trying to understand, discussing issues of faith."

Father Boyd, 51, a Buffalo, N.Y. native, was a Hollywood TV producer before entering the ministry as an Indianapolis, Ind., rector and later chaplain at Colorado State University and Wayne State University, from which he branched into a diversified ministry in civil rights and other areas.

He classified contemporary religious life in these five blocs:

—Established religion, defined by denominational organizations, ingrown cautious, mostly racially segregated, wary of criticizing American policies, alienating some adherents whenever it experiments or takes an unconventional stand.

—Anti-establishment religion, an individualistic variety, including many theologians, young evangelical activists, Jesus kids, the "gay" church charismatics, a spin-off from Christianity, but not denominationally oriented.

—The cultists, fascinated by oriental gurus, meditation exercises, astrology, magic, the occult, special diets, communes, generally a withdrawn, self-preoccupied element, disinterested in the churches, yet manifesting a genuine spiritual hunger.

—A non-religious, anti-establishment group of social activists, who emerged from the church and drew their social conscience from Judeo-Christian tradition, but which abandoned it to battle for peace, racial justice and the poor.

The agnostics, utterly indifferent to religion, concerned only with careers, money, hedonistic enjoyment, totally illiterate concerning the Bible.

4-H Orators Earn Awards, Experience

Six educational scholarships of $700 each and eighteen trips to the 53rd National 4-H Congress in Chicago, top the awards available to this year's 4-H public speakers nationally.

Nearly 214,000 boys and girls are expected to participate in the 4-H public speaking program sponsored by Union Oil Company of California, and supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service. And in their quest for the scholarships and trips, upwards of 75 young people will earn U.S. Savings Bonds and over 4700 medals of honor for their efforts.

Utilizing the 4-H method of "learning by doing," the 4-H orators deliver concise, well organized speeches on a variety of topics. And their audiences range from family members to club, school and community groups. They are members, like Megan Beachler of Los Angeles County, Calif., who credits her training in the 4-H public speaking program for the confidence and poise she possesses.

Miss Beachler, a 1973 scholarship winner, believes that her more than 100 speaking experiences have prepared her for leadership roles. She has served as a junior leader of three clubs, helped organize a new 4-H club and served as an officer of her local and district 4-H groups.

Donnita Weinkauff of Tulsa, Okla., another 1973 national winner, uses multi media to reach a variety of audiences. After researching her speech topics, she presents her talks to as many groups as possible—school, community, civic. Miss Weinkauff then reworks the speech for radio and rewrites it for newspaper use. Two such campaigns supported Safe Boating Week and Fire Prevention Week.

In 1974, for the 25th time, Union Oil Company provides a full schedule of awards to outstanding 4-H'ers in the program, including medals of honor to four-county winners and a $50 U.S. Savings Bond to the top boy and girl in the 4-H public speaking program in each state.

The Cooperative Extension Service selects the 18 state winners for sectional honors in the program. And these young people receive expense-paid trips to 4-H Congress in Chicago, Dec. 1-5. At the annual 4-H event, six of the sectional winners will be named recipients of scholarships courtesy of the company.

Bride sees ad for gift she returned

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Chester and I were recently married. We received a lovely pewter bowl and matching candlesticks from Cindy and Paul, who are close friends. They came from Cindy's father's jewelry store and looked very expensive. Chester and I are furnishing our apartment in English country, but this gift is ultramodern and would never go with our decorating scheme. Rather than bury it in a cupboard, I called Cindy and told her the truth. She seemed to appreciate my frankness and said: "I will pick it up tomorrow."

She picked it up and seemed pleasant enough, but imagine how we felt when a few days later the following ad appeared in the local paper:

"Will sell at a sacrifice, returned wedding gift of Chester and Yvonne Douglas. Beautiful modern pewter bowl and matching candlesticks. Cost $70, will sell for $35." Then the name of Cindy's father's jewelry store.

Chester and I are so humiliated, we can't hold our heads up. This Canadian city is buzzing.

Do you think we were wrong in being so candid about the gift? And what do you think of people who would do a thing like that?

MAPLE LEAF READERS

DEAR READERS: Obviously you should not have been so candid with Cindy and Paul. They showed a shocking lack of taste in placing such an ad in the newspaper. Don't worry about the "talk." It will be about the tastelessness of your friends—not you!

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a 27-year-old man who refused to speak to—or even recognize—any member of his immediate family on his own wedding day?

When his aunt tried to congratulate him, he turned away, saying, "Don't get lipstick on me." (The only words he spoke to any of us all day!)

I was so disgusted that instead of going to the reception, I changed my clothes, went downtown and returned the wedding gift I had bought for the couple. But then, I am only his mother.

HURT

DEAR HURT: The bridegroom could have been understandably uptight, nervous or preoccupied. And you could have been understandably sensitive and emotional. This would have been a good time for charity and restraint on both your parts.

DEAR ABBY: I was happy the councilman in my area voted against those kooks who wanted to go around naked on the beaches near where I live.

What's the matter with people today, anyway? Are they trying to make a big nudist colony out of our country? Don't we have enough trouble without letting those perverts and sex maniacs take off their clothes and run naked?

How do you stand?

DISGUSTED IN VENICE, CALIF.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Clothed. But nudity has little to do with immoral behavior. There are nudist camps for entire families, and there is nothing "immoral" about them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CLYDE B.: If you are the American sailor who has a mother in Alaska and a brother in Oklahoma, and are one-half Cherokee Indian, please write to me IF you want to hear from Jayn, that girl you met in Greece. She is looking for you.

BEFORE: Marette's hair-do was long, limp and droopy.

Hair How to

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

CIRCULAR brush and dryer "set" smooth pageboy style.

The Right Hairdos Make All the Difference

LIKE A CHAMELEON, a model must be able to change appearance. One booking may cast her as an ingenue, another as a career girl, sophisticated, or outdoor type. How to make presto changes in appearance? According to Marette a new face on the modeling scene, the answer lies in changing your hairdo. A hairstyle, she says, sets the mood. It's the start of a "look."

Baby Fine

Some women have easy-to-manage hair. Marette's is troublesome. Baby fine and straight, it has a tendency to hang limp. Because she couldn't cope with it herself, she put her head in the hands of Remington styling experts.

They took a dim view of the long, schoolgirl style she favored. Its down lines and unflattering center part did nothing to soften her square face. Growing-out bangs, unattractively anchored with bobby-pins, were obviously unflattering.

Two New Styles

To soften Marette's strong features, two versions of the pageboy were created for her. Each has an asymmetrical side part that breaks up the square line of her face, while hiding growing-in bangs to one side.

For a casual look Marette uses a powerful 850-watt hair dryer that styles, dries and adds body and bounce. A completely circular brush curves her hair as she dries it. Working with one section at a time, she winds the hair around the brush as tightly as possible. She turns back and sides under and rolls the front short pieces up and back toward the crown, training the full force of the dryer on each section, as pictured at top right.

She moves the dryer from side to side to dry each section evenly. This technique sets the pageboy in a naturally wavy style.

For Dress-up

For a more sophisticated and festive hairdo, Marette sets hair on 10-minute mist curlers. She rolls the top shorter pieces on large rollers for manageability, not curl, and sets the bottom half of her hair down and under in several layers, big curlers on top, medium ones at the nape. For the comb-out, hair is brushed thoroughly, then swirled into place with a rubber-tipped brush that reduces static electricity.

Can a hairdo make dramatic changes in appearance? Decide for yourself by checking the before picture of Marette against the two photographs that show her after hair was styled by experts.

SIDE-PARTED pageboy is fluffed up with soft curls and waves for an evening look.

CASUAL COIF falls in a soft pageboy. Side wave conceals the growing-out bangs.

Connors Wins, But

Sweethearts Split Success

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Jimmy Connors made it Sunday but not his bride-to-be Chris Evert, and so it is Australia against the United States for both the men's and women's singles titles in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Connors, a court ruffian in a Prince Valiant haircut, slashed out a 7-6, 7-6, 6-4 victory over Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., and set up an instant replay of his Wimbledon final against 39-year-old Ken Rosewall of Australia.

The seemingly ageless Rosewall pierced defending champion John Newcombe's blunderbuss attack with rapier-like returns and scored a 6-7, 6-4, 7-6, 6-3 upset.

Connors played with such ferocity that the sellout gallery of 15,402 must have imagined that he was out to avenge the defeat of pretty Miss Evert and her glamorous 56-match winning streak.

The composed and disciplined Miss Evert, from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., staged a tremendous comeback but could not overtake Australia's Evonne Goolagong, who won their twice postponed semifinal 6-0, 6-7, 6-3.

Miss Goolagong, a 23-year-old sheep herder's daughter, will face Billie Jean King, bidding for her fourth U.S. title. Ms. King, who prefers that designation, holds a 4-1 edge in head-to-head play.

Chrissie went into Sunday's play trailing 0-6, 3-4, only two games from elimination—but she put up terrific fight, three times coming from behind and forcing the Australian to play 65 minutes before winning.

She fought off four match points—two in the ninth game of the second set and two more in the final game of the match before Evonne put the match away with a 55sharp backhand down the line.

The normally circumspect and unshakable Miss Evert was seen to wipe tears from her eyes as she walked from the center court.

Connors, his blue shirttail hanging out and his white shorts stained with green from repeated falls on the damp turf, played with the vengeance that has become a characteristic. He spat on his hands, he glowered at his opponent, he fought for every point as if the entire match hung in the balance.

The unseeded Tanner, who previously had upset Ilie Nastase and Stan Smith, had no answer for Jimmy's whirlwind attack.

For the first two sets, the two 20-year-old longtime rivals hammered away at each other with their left-handed services—there were four breaks in each set and each case they went to a best-of-nine point tie-break.

This is where Connors excels, he won each tiebreak 5-2. He met Tanner's service headon and repeatedly sent the ball back for winners, often off his powerful two-fisted backhand.

Tanner just shook his head in dismay.

Connors broke Tanner in the fifth game and won the set easily to set up his showdown against Rosewall, whom he beat 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.

"I hope to play better Monday," Rosewall said. "I haven't had as many tough matches as at Wimbledon."

Rosewall, who first played at Forest Hills in 1953, won U.S. titles in 1956 and 1970.

But Lives

EVEL FAILS

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Stuntman Evel Knievel failed in his attempt to ride a steam-driven missile over the 600-foot Snake River Canyon on Sunday, but was quickly rescued from the bottom and waved to onlookers crowding the edge of the chasm.

Before the jump — probably the most publicized stunt in history — Knievel had called the attempt "the proudest day in my life." Moments later, he was headed nose first into the canyon, his descent slowed by the parachutes that were to have carried him to the rugged ground on the north side and instead deployed prematurely.

Rescuers reached the downed Sky-Cycle within moments, transferred Knievel to a rescue boat and later transferred him again to a helicopter for the ride back up to the canyon rim.

The helicopter touched down briefly on a ledge in front of the sharply angled launch ramp, then swung around in the direction of the trailer where Knievel had spent the hour before the jump with his wife and three children.

Linda Knievel, who had appeared calm in the moments preceding the jump, cried "Oh my God, no" as she watched the vehicle head downward. Running to the edge of the canyon, she looked at the scene below and exclaimed, "What's taking those guys so long to get to him?"

The jump which had been in preparation for more than two years lasted only a small portion of the two minutes it was expected to take to clear the 1,600-foot-wide canyon. Instead, the crucial parachutes deployed prematurely, halting the missile before it reached the far lip of the canyon.

Once back on the canyon shelf, Knievel, walking without apparent injury, climbed to the top of the hill from which he had been launched and waved to the thousands of spectators below. "I hit two or three shelves near the rocks, then bounced down," he said as he walked through a mob of admirers and newsmen. "But I was strapped in so tight it didn't matter."

Knievel said that seconds after the launch, the craft began to swerve to the right. "If I'd gone into the river, I'd have never gotten out of it," he said.

Dodgers Put Off Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bill Buckner's two-run double highlighted a three-run rally in the sixth inning and strongman Mike Marshall made a record-breaking 93rd relief appearance, helping the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Cincinnati Reds 7-4 Sunday.

The victory, the Dodgers' 11th in 15 meetings with their closest rivals, opened a 3½-game lead for them in the National League West.

The Dodgers chased Cincinnati pitching ace Jack Billingham, 18-9, in the sixth, taking a 4-3 lead on Dave Lopes bases-loaded groundout. Buckner then greeted reliever Pedro Borbon with a double off the right field wall for a 6-3 Dodger lead.

The Dodgers made it 7-3 in the top of the eighth on Manny Mota's sacrifice fly. The Reds scored their fourth run of the game on Pete Rose's homer in the bottom of the inning, when Marshall came in to break his own major league record set last year with the Montreal Expos.

The Dodgers, for the third straight game, jumped to an early lead. With two out in the first inning, consecutive singles by Jimmy Wynn, Steve Garvey and Willie Crawford made it 1-0.

Joe Ferguson's homer, his 15th of the baseball season, keyed a two-run outburst in the fourth. Dave Lopes doubled in the third run after Bill Russell singled and pitcher Doug Rau sacrificed him to second.

Tony Perez, snapping a series slump, lined a solo homer to deep center field in the fourth for the Reds' first run.

The Reds tied the score at 3-3 in the fifth on Dan Driessen's two-run homer into the right field stands. Cesar Geronimo led off the inning with a single.

Pirates Win Sixth Straight

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Richie Hebner slugged a two-run triple to key a three-run fifth-inning rally, then Dave Parker slammed a pinch-hit grand slam home run in the eighth to power the Pittsburgh Pirates to an 8-2 triumph over the Montreal Expos Sunday.

It was the sixth straight victory and the 13th in 15 games for the Pirates, leaders in the National League East.

Montreal lost its sixth in a row as starting pitcher Steve Rogers, 12-20, became the first 20-game loser in the major leagues this year and the first in the Expos' six-year history.

Rogers led 1-0 on a two-hitter into the Pirate fifth when Frank Taveras walked with two outs and took third on a sharp single up the middle by pitcher Jim Rooker. Rennie Stennett followed with a single to left, scoring Taveras.

Hebner then hit a line drive to right that rolled to the wall after Pepe Mangual missed on an attempted shoestring catch. It was ruled a triple and it scored Rooker and Stennett to give the Pirates a 3-1 edge.

Pittsburgh broke the game open with five runs in the eighth, the first coming on a bases-loaded walk to Richie Zisk. Then, with two out and the bases loaded, Parker batted for Taveras and slammed his fourth home run of the season over the right-field wall.

Rooker, 12-10, scattered six hits. Montreal's second run came in the sixth when Mangual doubled, stole third and scored on a sacrifice fly by Tim Foli.

Red Sox Win; Tied With Yankees

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox whipped the Milwaukee Brewers 8-6 Sunday behind a two-run homer by Dwight Evans and a key double by Doug Griffin, and charged into a first-place tie with the New York Yankees in the American League East.

The victory gave the Red Sox an identical 74-65 record as the Yankees, who were earlier beaten 11-3 by the Detroit Tigers. The Baltimore Orioles, who lost 7-4 to Cleveland, remained one game off the pace in the hottest race in baseball.

Taking over for starter Juan Marichal after Milwaukee scored two runs and had the bases loaded with one out in the first, reliever Dick Pole gave up a two-run single to Tom Johnson, but was in command until the eighth inning when the Brewers scored their final two runs.

The Red Sox used two more pitchers to put down the eighth-inning rally, including Diego Segui, who earned his 19th save of the season.

Losing 4-0, the Red Sox rallied to tie the game with a run in the fourth and three in the fifth, then went ahead in a two-run sixth highlighted by Griffin's RBI double.

Evans' homer in the seventh provided Boston with its eventual winning run.

Brock Swipes 103rd

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis' irrepressible Lou Brock stole two bases Sunday to pull within one of the major league record for stolen bases in one season, but Wayne Garrett's three-run homer keyed a four-run eighth inning rally that carried the New York Mets to a 5-3 victory over the Cardinals.

The loss snapped a six-game losing streak for the St. Louis and, coupled with the Pittsburgh Pirates' 8-2 victory over Montreal, dropped the second-place Cards 2½ games behind Pittsburgh in the National League East.

Brock stole second base in the first and eighth innings, boosting his season total to 103—just one short of the major league record of 104 set by Maury Wills in 1962.

The thefts boosted Brock's career total to 738, equalling the National League record held by Max Carey of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

With the score tied 1-1, winning pitcher Tom Seaver, 10-8, started the Mets eighth with a single and was sacrificed to second. After Felix Millan flied out, Ed Kranepool drove him home with a single to put the Mets ahead 2-1. Kranepool took second on the late throw to home plate.

John Milner was intentionally walked, but Garrett foiled the strategy by belting his 11th homer of the season into the right field seats.

Brock was hit by a pitch from Seaver in the first inning and stole second for his 102nd theft of the season. He moved to third on Ron Hunt's grounder and scored on a single by Ted Simmons to give St. Louis a 1-0 lead.

The Mets came back to tie the score in the third inning. Millan blooped a hit in front of Cards right fielder Reggie Smith and wound up with a double when the ball bounced away from Smith. Kranepool followed with a single to left, scoring Millan.

Brock's second stolen base came as the Cards rallied for two runs in the eighth. He hit into a forceout, then stole second on the first pitch by Seaver.

DePauw Picked 2nd In ICC

Butler not uncharacteristically has been cast in the role of favorite in the Indiana Collegiate Conference football chase that begins Sept. 14.

The Bulldogs won a co-championship in 1972, encoered with an undisputed crown last year, and are encoered there once again in the minds of ICC coaches in this year's annual pre-season poll of coaches.

Drawing four out of six possible first place votes and two for second, the Bulldogs amassed 34 poll points out of a possible 36. Coaches were prohibited from voting for their own squads.

DePauw, a surprise runnerup last year, drew 30 points for second in this season's prognostication derby. The rest of the field—which included Wabash as a full fledged contender this season for the first time—looks this way: 3. Evansville (26 points), 4. Indiana Central (20), 5. Valparaiso (17), 6. Wabash (11), and 7. St. Joseph's (9).

What makes Butler the coaches' choice for Coach Bill Sylvester's third title in five years? Experience. Butler.

Sylvester has eight of 11 starters back on defense led by all-ICC end Bill Knutz plus all-conference tackle Lee Schluge, converted from the offensive squad.

Butler's offensive attack, most prolific in the league last year, has a new director in talented Bill Lynch but an other wise seasoned cast. There's the league's top rusher returning in Paul Johnson (482 yards for 7.3 ypc), and equally tough Harry Muta (203 yards for 3.6 ypc.)

Three ace receivers—Dennis Leonard, Dave Swihart and Bob Grenda who collected 75 passes last year—are on hand to catch the pin-point passing Lynch revealed as a freshman. The offensive line has all-conference guard Andy Wetzel and, of course, tight end Swihart.

DePauw has five all-conference choices for ICC coach of the year Tom Mont to build on. Mont's 35 letter winners include the league's most valuable offensive back Bart Simpson. He holds all DePauw rushing records and was the dynamo that helped the Tigers control many games and generate more ICC rushing yards than anyone else last year. Back on offense with him are option quarterback Sam Juarascio, all-ICC split end Steve Snyder, all-ICC offensive guard Tony Quinn, all-ICC punting specialist Doug Pirtle. The Tiger defense, with seven of 11 starters, is headed up by all-ICC back Jim Buelow.

Evansville has one of its youngest squads in years, but it has a proven veteran in quarterback Ron Sutton, tops in the ICC and sixth in the nation last year (College Division) in total offense. Sutton's running mates again will be veterans Virgil Buford, Don Jochem, and Jim Pandolfi—all 3.9 or better ypc rushers.

The aces' top receiver, Bill Studwell, returns too and so do all-league linebacker Charles Uhde and defensive back Terry Irk. Evansville was the lone squad to beat Butler last year and has the psychological advantage of five of its six ICC games—including those with Butler and DePauw—at home.

Replacing interior lines on offense and defense appear to be Indiana Central's main problems. The Greyhounds have 27 lettermen returning from a 7-3 Cinderella team including their entire offensive and defensive backfields. Quarterback Rod Pawlik—third in ICC total offense in '73—and runners Dick Nalley and Steve Montgomery—in the top 15 league rushers—head the offense. Defensive backs Steve Wheatley and Jim Sims key a recordholding pass interception combination.

Central, curiously, is an enigma to most loop coaches. Bill Bless' squad is pegged to finish in every position but first and fifth. Valparaiso took heavy losses on both its offensive and defensive units of a year ago. It does, however, retain QB Pat Wanta and the league's number six rusher in fullback Keith Gilliland. So far Coach Norm Amundsen hasn't put his finger on all the replacements he needs, but he has 20 lettermen including five all-ICC second teamers from '73 and about 75 freshmen.

Wabash had only two seniors on its squad last year and managed a 5-5 season. New mentor Frank Navarro has virtually the same club, therefore, that dropped three ICC games last season by an average of on TD. This year, with the first Wabash team eligible for championship consideration, halfback Steve Wagner, quarterback Dave Cogdill and virtually all the defensive unit return. Wagner was number two in ICC rushing with a 6.1 average in 26 carries before being injured.

St. Joseph's, trying to recapture the pinnacle it reached with a 1971 championship, has 23 letter winners back in Rensselaer. Coach Bill Jennings returns junior quarterback Jeff Taylor, running back Jim Taylor, and split receiver Larry Olewinski—all factors Jennings looks to for improvement on a 3-7 mark 12 months ago. The Pumas need defensive improvement and it may come from line-backers Jack Kilmartin, Jim Griffin and Myron Moriarity. Jennings has a veteran but small interior line anchored by center Jim DeLach.

Wabash and Evansville inaugurate the conference season Sept. 14 in Evansville. Favored Butler won't get into action until it faces one of its fiercest rivals, Valpo, Sept. 28 at Valpo.

'Xenia Lives'

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — "Xenia Lives" say the bumper stickers here, scene of continuous rebuilding since the devastating April 3 tornado. But insuring that life are the schools.

Sessions began this week, although many students are on split day periods.

About 1,700 elementary pupils in four of the city's eight elementary schools attend classes four hours a day. All of the secondary schools, with about 3,800 students, are on double session.

Despite the inconvenience, Carl Adkins, superintendent, feels the schools give the community a sense of security.

"Within 19 days after the tornado, we had schools reopened," Adkins said. "We believed that parents in the community needed some kind of security that their community would come back to life. The school system has given them that kind of security."

Adkins estimates it will take about $11 million to rebuild schools here. He expects $9.8 million from insurance, leaving the schools the difference.

"There is no legislative provision in the law that covers a situation like what happened here," Adkins said. "We have asked for legislative funding and the legislature is currently in recess."

At the same time, the federal government is paying for modular classrooms which will be in use for as long as two to three years. Elementary classes began Wednesday. Bad weather delayed opening of other schools until next Monday.

Split sessions have not been accepted with universal good feeling.

Many parents in areas not affected by the tornado object to the shifting attendance boundaries the school system had adopted.

"Parents in the outlying areas not directly affected by the tornado are causing some problems, and some of them are understandable," Adkins said.

"They don't want to see their children transferred into another attendance district."

"But we had been realigning attendance districts all along. What the tornado did was speed up the process."

Despite the problems, Adkins said the response to the school's quick reopening after the tornado was gratifying.

Many companies offered school books and teachers came back after cleaning up their own devastated homes, Adkins said.

Rooster Aids Study

By ED SCHAFER
Associated Press Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A unique 15-pound rooster named El Macho has given researchers at Washington University here a way to combat a bone condition that often accompanies kidney failure.

El Macho's body produces an extremely sensitive antibody doctors can use to monitor and control a bone disease that often develops in patients who depend on dialysis of their blood to stay alive.

Dialysis machines are used to cleanse the blood of patients whose kidneys have stopped functioning. But they often leave a deficiency of calcium in the patient's blood, and soon bones become brittle and are easily broken.

El Macho — the name translated from Spanish means "much man" — is "one tough bird," says Dr. Eduardo Slatopolsky, director of the dialysis unit at Barnes Hospital here.

"Of all the roosters we tested, only one, El Macho, produced an antibody that was so sensitive that it could be used effectively," Slatopolsky explained how researchers discovered El Macho's usefulness.

"Without the kidney, the blood does not get the calcium it needs and the content of phosphorus in the bloodstream begins to rise."

"This buildup in turn triggers the parathyroid glands in the neck and parathyroid hormones are emitted to tell the body that more calcium is needed in the blood."

"Unfortunately, the blood picks up the calcium from the most available source, the bones. Over a period of time the stripping of calcium from the bones makes them brittle."

He said researchers found that roosters injected with parathyroid hormones from cows sometimes develop antibodies which react to human hormones. The result was a method of measuring hormone content in the blood of patients.

An increase in the amount of parathyroid hormone in the blood indicates a deficiency of calcium, he said.

"Doctors can then regulate the patient's diet or infuse calcium directly into the blood during dialysis to restore the phosphorous-calcium balance in the bloodstream and arrest the bone disease," Slatopolsky said.

"Not only was the El Macho antibody at least 100 times more sensitive to the parathyroid hormone than the other animals' antibodies — but it turned out that this rooster produces it in such quantities that there is enough to go around for every patient on dialysis in the world," the doctor said. "Enough, in fact, to supply our own laboratory's needs for the next 800 years if it were needed."

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss ... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done". But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss ... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair ... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation.

Unemployment Expected To Climb

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The way to tell when money is tight is when the economy is hurting.

That's how it is now, with unemployment at 5.3 per cent and expected to edge upward to 6 or even 7 per cent. The prime rate, the interest banks charge their best customers, is at a record 12 per cent. Home loans are pushing 10 per cent, and the home building industry is in its steepest slide in history.

Such were the developments that prompted a recurring theme among the economists who advised President Ford Thursday to seek a looser money supply.

But the President, for all his power, can only persuade when it comes to regulating the money supply. That chore is entrusted to the Federal Reserve Board, known as the Fed. The Fed was created shortly before World War I and is now headed by Arthur F. Burns.

Burns and his seven fellow governors have tightened the money supply by keeping it from growing as fast as it has in recent years.

The money supply grew an average of about 4 per cent a year in the 1960s, then ballooned 8.7 per cent in the boom year of 1972 before the Fed applied the brakes. The board cut the growth rate to 6.1 per cent last year and is shooting for something between 3 and 7 per cent this year.

Tight money means lower demand for goods and a downward pull on rising prices.

The Fed has three tools for tightening the money supply.

One is to increase the amount of money banks must hold in reserve to back up their depositors' accounts. Currently, the Fed requires the nation's biggest banks to maintain reserves to 18 per cent of customers' checking account balances.

Woman Missing

LOGANSPOUT, Ind. (AP) — Authorities are searching for some trace of a young Logansport woman missing since she told her mother Saturday night she was going to a laundry.

No one has been found who has seen Mary Cook since. Miss Cook, 22, a reporter for the Logansport Pharos-Tribune, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Cook of Walton.

Miss Cook lived in a Logansport apartment. She was reported missing when she failed to report for work Tuesday morning. Police say her car was parked in front of her apartment, and her mother reports she found nothing missing from the apartment except possibly a small overnight bag.

Army Re-Opens Bids

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seeking to dispel suspicions of official misconduct in the awarding of the present contract, the Army has decided to reopen the bidding on its $40 million recruitment advertising contract.

Sources said on Thursday that the decision has been made against automatic extension of the contract now held by N. W. Ayer & Son Inc., a New York ad agency, for the 1976 fiscal year.

An Army spokesman acknowledged that such a move has been under consideration but refused to comment further. The sources said, however, that an announcement would be forthcoming soon outlining procedures under which the bidding will be opened to all agencies.

Ayer, which has held Army advertising contracts for a number of years, won the bidding to promote the all-volunteer Army program in 1972, with the Army holding an option to renew the agreement automatically for the next two years.

It was extended once, for the current fiscal year.

Since then, a probe by the Army's Criminal Investigation Division turned up what field investigators considered to be evidence of possible criminal misconduct by senior Pentagon officials in the awarding of the contract to Ayer.

However, their recommendation that the matter be turned over to the Justice Department for further investigation was rejected. The case was referred instead to the Army's own Inspector General for what officials have called a continuing inquiry aimed at "improving management procedures."

The second tool is the discount rate, or the interest the Fed charges member banks to borrow money. The discount currently is a record 8 per cent and a full 3 per cent above January 1973, when the Fed began tightening the money screws in earnest.

The Fed's third, and preferred, method is something called the "Open Market Committee," headed by Burns and composed of his fellow governors and four other members elected by the Federal Reserve banks around the country.

When the committee wants more money in circulation, it buys securities on the open market, thus pumping money into the economy. When the money supply is growing too fast, the Open Market Committee sells some of the securities it holds, siphoning money into its coffers.

The Fed orchestrates the committee's operations as finely as possible by keeping a close watch on growth in the money supply and the effect of the growth on a key money market vehicle — the federal funds rate.

Federal funds are excess reserves that banks lend to each other. A high federal funds rate usually signifies tight money.

The rate had never hit 10 per cent before last year. It has already gone over 13 per cent and currently has receded to about 12 per cent.

Findings On Farmers Who Work Two Jobs

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new study soon to be published by the Agriculture Department suggests that farmers who hold other jobs do so mainly to get more money to pour back into the land.

The study was made in Illinois, based on farm earnings from all sources in 1971. A summary of the findings was published today in the August issue of Farm Index by the department's Economic Research Service.

Officials said the findings in Illinois coincide generally with a national pattern that has been followed for some years: About one-half of a farm family's total income comes from sources off the farm.

In 1971, the report said, an Illinois farm family averaged $10,960 for the year. Of that, $5,675 was from off-farm work and $5,285 from net farm income.

The complete report is scheduled to be published in a forthcoming issue of the agency's Agricultural Finance Review. It was written by R.J. Hanson, University of Nebraska, and R.G. F. Spitz, University of Illinois, and adapted for the summary published today.

The most frequent reason given by Illinois farmers for holding other jobs was to earn money to invest in their farming operations or to reduce farm debts, the report said.

"These reasons suggest a desire on the part of these farmers to remain in farming by further expanding their operations and improving their equity positions," the authors said.

Other reasons: education for their children, home improvements, family needs and retirement.

Farmers in the Illinois study said they most frequently were employed as carpenters, electricians, repairmen and in other occupations in the trades. Their wives most often worked as secretaries, clerks and bookkeepers.

Farm size and net income from agriculture was a factor in rates of employment in town jobs. Only 30 per cent of those who reported gross sales from farming of $10,000 a year or more worked away from their farms. About 66 per cent who sold less than $10,000 in products held other jobs.

"Off-farm income for farmers operating 500 acres or more averaged only $1,750, while it averaged $5,700 for farmers operating less than 180 acres," the report said.

Further, the study showed that two out of five farmers who held off-farm jobs sometime in the 1960s had quit them in 1971 because of increased farm work demands.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sales of U.S. livestock to Canada can resume next week as the result of a stepped-up campaign to inform American suppliers of new rules affecting that market, says the Agriculture Department.

Officials said Thursday that exports of feeder and slaughter cattle and sheep, plus meat from those animals, can commence Sept. 9. The Canadian market had been closed to U.S. producers since last April after Canada insisted livestock and meat had to be certified it had never been exposed to DES, the growth hormone.

A new agreement was reached several weeks ago. It established annual quotas and specifications for certifying DES had not been used in beef and lamb production headed for the Canadian consumer market.

One of the stipulations was that U.S. producers had to be instructed of the new Canadian rules. Officials had thought it would take until Sept. 15 to conduct meetings in major livestock areas to fulfill that requirement, but they said Thursday the schedule was completed ahead of time.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Exporters say they have sold far more corn to foreign buyers from the 1974 U.S. crop than the Agriculture Department believes is the case.

As of Aug. 25, the department's weekly export report showed Thursday, more than 991 million bushels of corn had been sold for delivery in the new crop year that begins Oct. 1.

The new total was up about two-thirds from export commitments shown for Aug. 11, just two weeks earlier. And it was far in excess of the 900 million bushels maximum USDA says corn exports will total for all of the coming crop year.

Most of the increase has been for sales reported to have been made to European Common Market countries. In all, the nine-member community was shown to have bought more than 410 million bushels for 1974-75 delivery, double the quantity listed two weeks before.

Deputy Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Beil said — as USDA officials have indicated earlier — that much of the reported sales increase has been speculative and that he does not expect near that amount to be delivered to foreign buyers.

Crime Rate Up

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI once again has told the nation crime is going up almost everywhere. But there are exceptions and Coal Township, Pa., is one.

The small central Pennsylvania town emerged as one of the safest communities in America while most other places, small and large, city, suburban and rural, were plagued with rising crime rates.

Nationally, crime increased 6 per cent in 1973, according to the full-year figures released on Thursday by the FBI. More than eight million serious crimes were committed, one every 16 minutes.

Murders were up 5 per cent, assaults 7 per cent, rape 10 per cent, and on and on.

But the picture was considerably brighter in Coal Township, population 11,789, where there were no murders, no man-slaughters, no rapes, no assaults and no robberies.

"Why, we haven't had a murder in Coal Township in 15 years," boasted Police Chief Jesse Weaver in a telephone interview.

In the FBI list of hundreds of cities of 10,000 and larger, Coal Township was one of only nine that reported no violent crimes in 1973. Of those nine, the Pennsylvania town reported the fewest total offenses.

The village, spreading over 42 square miles, encircles the town of Shamokin in a valley 120 miles northwest of Philadelphia. As described by Weaver, who has lived there all his 48 years, Coal Township is home for many who work in factories in nearby cities and for a high proportion of retired people.

Why is crime so rare in Coal Township?

"Well, we do have police patrols out all night. Our churches have extra activities to keep the young people off the streets. We don't have much marijuana and much heroin, none of that stuff," Weaver theorized.

But Coal Township was not entirely crime-free last year. There were a few burglaries, about one every two weeks, and a half-dozen cars were stolen. The town had a regular rash of sneak thievery; something was stolen at least once a week.

The predominant picture was considerably more troublesome for law enforcement authorities who breathed relief when the 1972 figures showed a national crime decrease of 4 per cent, the first decline in 17 years.

But the drop now seems to have been a fluke. The new full-year figures show that total reported crime was 6 per cent higher in 1973 than in 1972. The first quarter figures for 1974, released several weeks ago, reflected a 15 per cent increase over the comparable months last year.

The volume of crime in the seven Crime Index categories jumped 30 per cent during the past five years, 120 per cent since 1960.

In 1973, the violent crimes of murder, assault, rape and robbery were up by 5 per cent, the property crimes of burglary, larceny and auto theft by 6 per cent.
